

Dad's radio circuits

Written by Hans Summers

Saturday, 22 August 2009 22:51 - Last Updated Saturday, 22 August 2009 23:24

dads/photo1 This page is dedicated to the memory of Douglas George Summers dads/photo2

The following pages contain some items from the archives, including a batch of QSL cards from around 1938, some of Dad's radio circuits, and a couple of pieces of equipment. (Larger image of left photo , larger image of right photo)

dads/freqstd Frequency Standard.
dads/radio 1959 Superheterodyne receiver.
dads/radio2 Another part (and some explanation) of the same radio receiver.

Signal Generator:

Dad's Heathkit Signal Generator.

Read more...

Voltmeter:

These are some photographs of Dad's voltage meter. The lower switch sets one of 6 ranges and is labeled

Historic QSL Cards from 1938

Dad's radio circuits

Written by Hans Summers

Saturday, 22 August 2009 22:51 - Last Updated Saturday, 22 August 2009 23:24

~~These are the call signs of the stations that were used by Douglas Summers in the 1930s. These are the call signs of the stations that were used by Douglas Summers in the 1930s.~~